

DIVEST FROM DAPL

Stand with Standing Rock

- DAPL (The Dakota Access Pipeline) is a crude oil pipeline that would cross under the Missouri River, threatening drinking water and sacred sites for the Standing Rock Reservation and millions of others.
- The proposed site of the DAPL violates century old land treaties.
- This pipeline would be further investment in fossil fuel infrastructure that is endangering our children, and all children, with climate chaos.
- Water Protectors recently won an historic victory– the Army Corps of Engineers will not be issuing a permit to complete construction of the DAPL. However, the project is not permanently ended– the company and our incoming administration have vowed to push the project through regardless of this decision.
- Without investors, the project cannot move forward.
