

Divest from the Dakota Access Pipeline

Dear Wells Fargo,

I am a customer of Wells Fargo. I join thousands of other customers in urging you to end funding of the Dakota Access Pipeline. This crude oil pipeline would cross under the Missouri River, threatening drinking water and sacred sites for the Standing Rock Reservation and millions of others. In addition, building this pipeline would wreak further havoc with our climate. Though the Army Corps of Engineers recently denied the permits required to complete construction of the DAPL, the company you are investing in, Energy Transfer Partners, has made clear their intentions to complete this project regardless. It is Wells Fargo's moral responsibility to immediately cancel all financing for this dangerous project. I urge you to divest from the Dakota Access Pipeline.
